Jurnal Kajian Wilayah (JKW) is an authoritative source of information and discussion on Area Studies, particularly Southeast Asian Studies, Asian Pacific Studies, as well as European and African Studies. It publishes original research papers, review articles, book reviews and research summary on various perspectives and disciplines (history, anthropology, sociology, literature, politics, international relation, economics, philosophy and religion). JKW is an open access and peer reviewed journal published by Research Center for Regional Resources, the Indonesian Institute of Sciences, twice in a year (July and December).

We are pleased to invite your contribution on various issues in Area Studies, such as transnational movements, ethnicity, development, migration, globalization and multiculturalism.
